About Colby

At his core, Colby B. Jubenville, PhD is a coach who uses the obstacles and challenges people face in search of achievement as “teachable moments” that help make sense of their life, work and relationships. Dr. Jubenville holds an academic appointment at Middle Tennessee State University and is the Director of the Center for Student Coaching and Success.

Colby was selected by The Nashville Business Journal as a member of its 40 Under 40 class and selected by YP Nashville as its Impact Award Winner, which recognizes top leaders who have made a significant impact on the city's YP demographic. He is the recipient of the St. Paul's Episcopal School (Mobile, AL), Distinguished Alumni award. Jubenville writes for The Forbes Coaches Council and is the host of The Goat Consulting Podcast which drops weekly on Apple Podcast and YouTube!

What Others Are Saying

“Colby served as the keynote speaker for the University of Florida’s Career Engagement Summit in which he presented to over 50 companies from across the nation and 20 career services staff interested in elevating their campus recruitment branding strategy. 87% of employers who completed evaluations stated that Colby’s Keynote Exceeded Expectations. Multiple respondents claimed he was the favorite part of the day and wished he had more time to speak. Colby brought a lively energy to the day with his engaging presentation style and was invested in relating the content to the audience.”

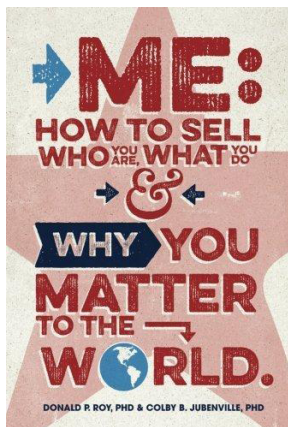

Angel Iverson, Director of Career Foundations - University of Florida

“Dr. Jubenville, thank you so much for speaking to our Murfreesboro Young Professionals (MYP) group in June. I left feeling inspired and confident in what I need to do to advance my career. I also heard rave reviews from other members. Several said you were the best speaker we have ever had! Thank you for motivating us all!”

Andrea Bennett-Punke, Government Relations - McMahan, Winstead & Richardson
