Speaker | Author | Trusted Advisor

About

Colby B. Jubenville, PhD, is a powerhouse speaker, author, and trusted advisor in the realm of talent development. His Talent Development Framework is designed to help people identify, harness, and amplify their unique talents. What began with students navigating the transition from college to the next phase of life has evolved into a framework, guiding professionals and leaders through every stage of their personal and professional growth.

Dr. Jubenville's influence stretches beyond the classroom. Honored by The Nashville Business Journal as part of its prestigious 40 Under 40 class and awarded the Impact Award by YP Nashville for shaping the city's young professional landscape, Colby's accolades speak to his leadership and impact. He is a distinguished alumnus of St. Paul's Episcopal School in Mobile, AL, and a proud member of the Forbes Councils, where his insights appear on Forbes.com. As the creator and host of The Goat Consulting Podcast, Colby delivered thought-provoking conversations on what it means to be a GOAT.

In 2023, Colby expanded his reach by becoming Principal Partner at Frontline Develop, and further solidified his role as a catalyst for personal and organizational success. With Colby B. Jubenville at the helm, the future of talent development looks bright.

Testimonials

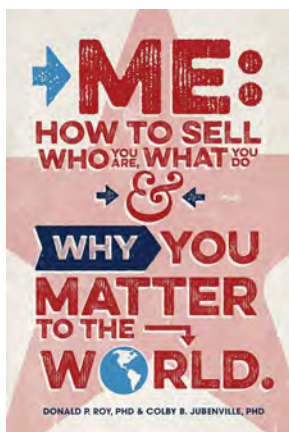

Colby is a truly talented speaker. His ability to connect with his audience in a lively and engaging way, even virtually, is incredible to watch. During his presentation, he helped our company leaders dive deeper into their emotional intelligence and left his audience feeling inspired, motivated, and more knowledgeable about their emotional leadership.

Quint Studer, Founder - Studer Family of Companies

As a business speaker, Colby has a greater ability than anyone I've worked with to create strategies that absolutely nail together an organization's vision, strengths, and brand in a way that creates results. I highly recommend him!
